Bergen County Commissioner

SUSAN GREENBAUM

When Susan became JFCS's CEO in 2014, she ushered in a decade of continued growth and success for the agency. Susan's expansive experience in the non-profit industry has made her an invaluable asset to JFCS, and it is noticed by all who interact with her. Ask any JFCS employee or Board member and they will tell you that Susan has been the bedrock on which the agency has thrived, offering an open ear, a willingness to try new things, and an overall attitude that fosters an environment of success. Leading JFCS through a merger, a global pandemic, and an attack on Israel that affected everyone in our community, Susan is always the steady hand that guides the agency to resilience and excellence. Though Susan is retiring after this fiscal year, her impact on JFCS and Northern NJ will be felt for generations to come.

TRACY ZUR

Tracy Silna Zur has been a Bergen County Commissioner for the past twelve years and has dedicated her career to being a champion for the underserved. As a former prosecutor and judge, Tracy has witnessed first-hand the injustices that plague some members of our community. A desire to initiate change drove her to run for public office so she could address the root causes of the challenges that many families face. Notably, she spearheaded the Bergen County Food Security Task Force (now the Office of Food Security) in response to the impact of the economic crisis caused by the pandemic. Tracy has been an avid supporter of JFCS's Corner Market Food Pantry, connecting JFCS to vital resources that enable the agency to better serve its clients. Similar to JFCS, Tracy is an advocate for employment, housing, social programs for adults with special needs, and mental health services. Tracy's dedication to improving the lives of those in our community is a gold standard of public service that has allowed the residents of Bergen County to thrive.
