A MESSAGE FROM OUR CEO

Susan Greenbaum

It's hard to believe that another fiscal year is ending. At JFCS, this means that staff and leadership are rolling up our sleeves to begin yet another year of robust and ever-evolving strategizing for and service to our Northern New Jersey community. As you look through these pages, whether you be staff, leadership, volunteer, donor, or client, I hope you are proud to learn about the impact that JFCS has on those who need us the most. I want you to feel that your participation is essential to helping our clients build healthier, happier, and more fulfilled lives. For when those among us who need support receive such support in a respectful and sustainable way, we are all fulfilled.

Each of our Four Pillars of Service embodies attentive and compassionate care to individuals and entire families who are experiencing trauma, illness, loss, or challenges with which they need help. When an individual suffers emotionally, their whole family suffers, and the community cares. When a parent sustains a loss or experiences a serious challenge, their children and spouse feel the impact, and the community cares. When an elder suffers from loneliness, when somebody loses their job and ability to support themselves, when a young adult seeks assistance because they are feeling depressed and hopeless, when a single mom is way behind on rent for the home where she lives with her children, the entire community cares. Your caring for those in our community who need mental health services or social services or food or emergency assistance is actualized through the work of JFCS.

This year, we thank Rachel Scheff for three exemplary years as President of JFCS. Rachel has been a fearless and clearheaded leader whose soft-spoken, unassuming warmth has been a perfect antidote for the roller-coaster of a pandemic that became the hallmark of these past three years. We are forever grateful to her for her wisdom and kindness, and we are pleased that she will now be the Chair of the Endowment Board. In this Annual Report, you will note that we highlight Legacy and Endowment giving as our leadership embraces the goal of securing the services and impact of JFCS in perpetuity.

We are thrilled to welcome Sima Kern as our next President. Sima is passionate about continuing the growing visibility of JFCS and its increasing support of the children, adolescents, adults, and seniors who need us most. I am excitedly looking forward to what JFCS will accomplish under her leadership.

So, as you read these pages, please remember that each impact number represents a person or entire family experiencing a crisis or major life adjustment. It may represent one or several different professionals at JFCS working, planning, and helping in a manner uniquely designed for that person or family, over a brief or much longer period of time, with the goals of better health, improved quality of life, hope, and even happiness. I am deeply grateful to all of our JFCS team members for their dedication, their clarity about our mission, and their endless drive to help others make positive change.

With appreciation for all of you,

Susan Greenbaum

"I'm not as young and mobile as I used to be. When my sister was no longer able to care for me, I reached out to JFCS for help. They connected me with a lovely care manager who helped me apply for government financial assistance. I now have a home health aide, I receive Kosher Meals on Wheels every week, and my case manager even arranged a friendly visitor to spend time with me. Thanks to JFCS, I can age gracefully in my own home!"

“While our young daughter was recovering from an illness, my husband lost his job. Stressed about being sick and our financial situation, she returned to school a different kid - she wouldn't talk to her friends and her grades started dropping. We called JFCS for help. Through weekly play therapy and several counseling sessions with the whole family, our daughter is her happy self. Thank you JFCS for giving us our daughter back!”
